Survivor Testimony: Alice Friedmann

I was glued to the screen in amazement as Alice Friedmann pulled me into her story full of darkness and life changing events. As Nazis invaded Austria in 1938 everything peaceful turned into an era of terror. Alice attempted to stay with her family by pretending to be her uncle's bride, but was unsuccessful. One by one the more tracks she passed the more her family faded away, and I realized how lucky I am to have my family. Suddenly, the train stopped, no tracks were left, a brighter future arose, only freedom and a story to pass on remained.
